COLLEGE MEDIA STUDENT GETS GREAT ROLE AT FOOTBALL CLUB

Wednesday 18th February 2009

A media student at Cambridge Regional College (CRC) has become the envy of his friends by gaining a position working at Cambridge United Football Club.

Paul Wick (20) is in his second year, studying National Diploma in Media Production Film and TV at CRC. He is employed at Cambridge United Football Club as a Camera Operator, where he has been making good use of his knowledge and skills gained at CRC. In his new role, he is required to film practice matches and edit the footage to aid the coaches plan their training sessions.

Paul said, "This is a fantastic opportunity for me to get relevant experience in the industry. Having this placement has made me certain of my career choice as a Sports Cameraman and given me the extra drive and motivation to achieve a high grade in my course".

The course provides a practical, in-depth introduction to the creative and technical skills of video production and covers topics such as Research Techniques, Production Management, Professional Briefs and Critical Approaches to Media Products.
