NEW YEAR BRINGS NEW LEISURE CLASSES AT CRC

Cambridge Regional College has a new range of part-time courses starting in January – offering a great opportunity to learn a new hobby or pick up the skills for a new career in 2012.

There's something for everyone, from pottery, music production and IT, to beauty therapy, DIY and bricklaying. Basic car maintenance and motorcycle maintenance could help save money, while creative metalcraft, woodcraft, print-making, painting and crafts evening classes will fire the imagination.

This year, for the first time, CRC is offering one-day beauty classes in skincare and make-up, nail treatments and massage, designed as tasters to try out the subjects before taking a longer course.

For those thinking of a career change in the new year, or looking to increase their professional skills, the College is a major provider of courses leading to professional business qualifications, working with some of the country's top awarding bodies.

Part-time courses starting in January include Book-Keeping and Accounts, SAGE Computerised Accounts, AAT Diploma Accountancy and CIM Introductory Certificate Marketing. Courses are taught by industry experts and accredited by organisations such as AAT, CIPS, CIM, CIPD, ILM and CACHE.
