CAMBRIDGE REGIONAL COLLEGE TO HOLD FUN AND INFORMATIVE OPEN DAY

Wednesday 4 March 2009

Cambridge Regional College will be opening its doors to the public next weekend, offering visitors the chance to have a look at the outstanding facilities available and giving them the opportunity to meet staff and current students at the College.

The open day, which was postponed in February due to bad weather and concerns for safety, will now take place on Saturday 14th March between 9.30am -1 pm at the Science Park Campus only.

CRC is one of the largest and best-regarded vocational training colleges in the area, offering practical, work related qualifications to those who prefer more of a 'hands-on' approach to learning. The College offers a wide range of practical training in areas such as Art & Design, Construction, Engineering, Hairdressing and Hospitality & Catering.

Open Days offer an ideal opportunity to find out more about the College and to get a taste of College life and find out about the extensive range of full-time courses and Apprenticeships available. Representatives from all Academies will be on hand to talk to and provide information about courses, as well as students who are currently studying at CRC who can tell you what life at College is really like.

There will be a chance to watch various demonstrations, as well as participate in hands-on activities, such as feltmaking, radio broadcasting, dance workshops, fingerprinting, media make-up, bricklaying and much more. There will also be an opportunity to have a look at how the £multi-million single site project is progressing.
