Cambridge Regional College helps establish new Skills Academy in Saffron Walden

13 November 2009

Cambridge Regional College has helped Saffron Walden County High establish a new Skills Academy delivering courses in construction and the built environment.

The project, supported by the Ridgeons Group, is aimed at students who want to learn the practical skills to equip them for progression into higher level training or employment.

Skills Academy director Rob Loe said CRC had been incredibly supportive in efforts to establish the new curriculum, and he expected County High students who graduated from the Academy to move on to Level 3 courses at institutions such as Cambridge Regional College.

He said the opening of the Academy would help build stronger links to the world of work and to further education
