ART STUDENT'S CHRISTMAS CARD SPREADS FESTIVE CHEER

A Christmas card designed by art student Steven Watts will be spreading Cambridge Regional College's festive message this year.

The card, featuring hundreds of tiny Santas, was chosen after a competition across the College – with Steven's tessellated design proving the winner.

The 24 year-old graphic design student came up with his creation after being inspired by class work on tessellations, and used the College's corporate colours to complete the card.

His design, crafted digitally on the computer, was chosen by the College's senior management to be printed and sent out as CRC's official Christmas card for 2011.

NOTES TO EDITORS

Cambridge Regional College is one of the largest providers of full-time further education for 16 to 19 year-olds in the eastern region. The College has more than 4,000 full-time and 6,000 part-time students, coming from a 40-mile radius, covering Cambridge and its surrounding villages, eastern Bedfordshire, northern Essex and western Suffolk.

Over 80 per cent of full-time students are aged 16 to 18 years old and come to the College after secondary school; the rest are mature students, studying on a range of Access to Higher Education and vocational programmes. The College offers the largest and most comprehensive range of vocational courses in Cambridgeshire, and has one of the largest work-based learning contracts in the Eastern Region.
